Poetics 19 (1990) 571–572
North-Holland

CONTENTS OF VOLUME 19

Andringa, E., see R. Viehoff 221
Andringa, E., Verbal data on literary understanding: A proposal for protocol analysis on two levels 231
Bettoni, M.C., Cognition, semantics and computers 65
Dinsmore, J. and C. Moehle, Artificial Intelligence looks at natural language 13
Drewniak, U., see G.C. Kunz 191
Firle, M., The relationship between poetic and verbal communication 423
Graesser, A.C., see K.L. Lang 143
Hemphill, D.D., see K.L. Lang 143
Ide, N.M. and J. Véronis, Artificial Intelligence and the study of literary narrative 37
Jonas, H., Empirical research into reception and the methodology of literature 465
Kunz, G.C., U. Drewniak and F. Schott, Analysis of self-regulation in learning from instructional text by means of 'computer-assisted videoreconstruction' (CaV) 191
Lang, K.L., A.C. Graesser and D.D. Hemphill, The role of questioning in knowledge engineering and the interface of expert systems 143
László, J., Images of social categories vs. images of literary and non-literary objects 277
Lehnert, W.G., see S. Wermter 99
Lerchner, G., The text as a 'model-forming system' in literary communication 411
Löffler, D., Intuitive sujet concepts in reception 475
Meutsch, D. and R.A. Zwaan, On the role of computer models and technology in literary and media studies 1
Meyszies, U., Understanding literary narrative texts: Outline for an interdisciplinary dialogue 505
Miall, D.S., Readers' responses to narrative: Evaluating, relating, anticipating 323

Moehle, C., see J. Dinsmore 13
Müske, E., Frame and literary discourse 433
Scherf, E.M., Motive and goal as determinants in the treatment of texts: Some thoughts on a functional model of reception 487
Schmidt, S.J., What advertising can tell scholars of empirical aesthetics 389
Schott, F., see G.C. Kunz 191
Seegers, G., see H. Verdaasdonk 359
Smith, C.F., see J.B. Smith 121
Smith, J.B. and C.F. Smith, Writing, thinking, computing 121
Van Peer, W., The measurement of metre. Its cognitive and affective functions 259
Verdaasdonk, D., The effect of financial resources on the products and the careers of Dutch filmmakers 377
Verdaasdonk, H. and G. Seegers, The impact of socioeconomic variables on cultural behavior. The case of subscribers to literary magazines 359
Véronis, J., see N.M. Ide 37
Viehoff, R. and E. Andringa, Literary understanding as interaction. Some aspects, some hints, some problems 221
Wermter, S. and W.G. Lehnert, A survey of question answering in natural language processing 99
Werner, H.-G., The effects and history of literature: Some theses . 525
Weimann, R., Cultural change, communication and the space for art: Notes on value and the uses of intertextuality 537
Wuss, P., Narration and the film structures for three learning phases 549
Zarri, G.P., A cognitive (Artificial Intelligence + computational linguistics) approach to the analysis of natural language messages 167
Zellermayer, M., Shifting along the oral/literate continuum. The case of the translated text 341
Zöllner, K., 'Quotation analysis' as a means of understanding comprehension processes of longer and more difficult texts . . . 293
Zwaan, R.A., see D. Meutsch 1